25th Australian Hickory Shaft Championship and the inaugural Australian Hickory Shaft Foursomes Championship.

The Australian Hickory Shaft Championship returns to Sydney for 2019 and the AGHS are proud to announce that the 25th Australian Hickory Shaft Championship will be held on Monday 23rd September on the Concord Golf Club course.

Concord Golf Club has a long and distinguished history for 120 years and Club's origins sprung from The Sydney Golf Club. More recently the course has been transformed by renowned American golf course designer Tom Doak and the Club is keen for the hickory enthusiasts to experience the revised layout.

Also, the AGHS is excited to announce that the inaugural Australian Hickory Shaft Foursomes Championship will be held at Elanora Country Club on Sunday 22nd September. Elanora has a history stretching back to the hickory era with the first nine holes opened in 1929, and the second nine a year later.

Both events are open to all Australian golfers with a GA handicap with scratch and handicap events for both women and men. The entry fee per head including green fees and light snacks after the game will be:

Concord: $160 for AGHS members, $180 for non-members.

Elanora: $140 for AGHS members, $160 for non-members.

The events will be shot gun starts at 12:30pm and hire sets will be available at a cost of $25. Players are encouraged to wear period apparel.

After the success of the 2018 event at Royal Melbourne Golf Club's West Course, and in keeping with the AGHS philosophy that the Australian Championships events should be rotated around the States to appropriate venues and, plans are already advanced to hold the Championships at the Royal Queensland Golf Club in 2020 and at Long Reef Golf Club in 2021 as part of their respective centenary celebrations.

The event will be played to AGHS Conditions of Play to ensure the past event results are consistent with this event. Please ensure your clubs satisfy those conditions of play, particularly regarding "leather wrap grips". The organisers reserve the right to inspect clubs, and to disqualify players using non-conforming equipment.

Details regarding the entry to both events are below and will be displayed on the AGHS website. The fields may be limited to 72 players and the organisers reserve the right to determine the participants.
